

FEBC-Eurasia July Prayer Focus

Tuesday – 1

Please pray for FEBC-Moldova’s vloggers, who are growing and ministering to many listeners. One of our vloggers, Ivan, receives around 2 million views a month. Please pray for our vlogging team to reach many people with the Good News.

Wednesday – 2

“One of our listeners from the city of Kamianets-Podilskyi, Ukraine, was recently baptized in her church,” says FEBC-Ukraine broadcaster Inna. “Around 2 years ago, she wrote to me—she had been following my program for some time. I invited her to an event we were holding in her city, and, while we were there, I introduced her to some leaders from a local church. They continued ministering to her, and now, she has devoted her life to Christ. Please keep her in your prayers. Many of our listeners are taking these real, concrete steps towards God.

Thursday – 3

Please pray for FEBC-Russia’s vlogging ministry which we are currently developing. These vloggers are located across Russia, and are able to reach many different kinds of people. Please pray for an upcoming meeting that we are holding, which can be difficult for political reasons. Please pray for protection and travel mercies.

Friday – 4

Please pray for FEBC-Kyrgyzstan’s ministry reaching the 6.4 million people of Kyrgyzstan, the majority of whom are Muslim, with the Good News. FEBC-Kyrgyzstan has 6 FM stations, covering the majority of the country, and have a vibrant online ministry, reaching people through short videos, one-on-one conversations, and meetings. Most people have been exposed to very little about Christianity, especially in their native language, and people are responding.

Saturday – 5

Please pray for FEBC's outreach to the millions of Ukrainian women who lost their homes and are now surviving in different parts of the country. Hundreds of thousands are single moms. FEBC's programs are making a huge difference in their lives. As the war continues to rage, FEBC's women's programs that bring the love of Christ to these women is making a huge difference. Especially in the lives of young widows who are dealing with the loss of their husbands at war—many are thanking us with tears in their eyes.

Sunday – 6

A man named Erzrat, from Kazakhstan, wrote to us after watching one of our programs. "I have never heard someone preach about Jesus and the Bible in the Kazakh language! How can I learn more? I have been studying the history of religions in Central Asia, but there is so little in about Christianity in our language." We helped Erzrat get a Bible and connected him with a local pastor. Please pray for Erzrat (on the right), who has not yet accepted Jesus as his Savior. We believe that the Holy Spirit will reveal the true path to him.

Monday – 7

Please pray for FEBC-Russia's women's programs, which are a powerful means of first introduction to the Gospel. As women respond to the program, our counselors are beginning a dialogue with them, helping them connect to Christ and a local church. We are using this window of opportunity that is still open in Russia to bring the Good News to the women who are oppressed, confused, and lied to.

Tuesday – 8

The attacks continue to get worse in Ukraine, with heavy drone attacks hitting Kyiv, where most of our broadcasters are located, and many other cities in eastern Ukraine. Please pray for those who were killed and injured, pray for the protection of our broadcasters, and pray for their strength, as they regularly broadcast after long nights of attacks.

Wednesday – 9

Please pray for some regular listeners of our programs in Uzbekistan, Akmal, Ali, Zolushka, Akmal, and Abdullokh. They respond to every program, defending Islam. They themselves have never read the Koran, but quote the most well-known verses in their arguments. We believe that the Lord is working on their hearts as they watch our programs. Please pray for them to come to salvation in Christ.

Thursday – 10

Please pray for listeners like Elena, from Ukraine, who are exhausted by the war. “God must be punishing us,” Elena said. “Even if they make it home from the war, our husbands, brothers, and fathers are drinking themselves to death. I’ve lost hope that this war will ever end.” Please pray for the Lord to touch Elena’s heart—our evangelists shared the Gospel with her, showed her how she could read the Bible, and prayed for her. They also connected her with a local church. Please pray for her to have the strength to go to the church and to reach out again for help.

Friday – 11

Please pray for listeners in Moldova who have experienced domestic violence, like Alina. “I want to believe in God. I’ve been listening to your programs, but it’s like there is something blocking me from accepting them. I constantly feel the pain from what I’ve experienced. Like it is in the way.” Please pray for Alina as she searches for the truth; please pray for her heart to be healed so that she can open herself to Christ.

Saturday – 12

“I invited a group of our listeners to come to a meeting,” said Inna, FEBC-Ukraine’s broadcaster. “We met with the wife of a local pastor, who was eager to meet these young women and invite them to church. Two of them had lost loved ones in the war, and found this meeting so encouraging. Now, members of the church are building relationships with these young women, and they are asking when we will be able to meet again! Please pray for them to give their lives to Christ!”

Sunday – 13

Please pray for FEBC’s ministry in Uzbekistan a Central Asian, predominantly Muslim country, with a population of 35 million people. It is slowly opening to the possibility of Good News being proclaimed through media. While we are constantly dealing with government pressure and interrogations, we are continuing to bring the Good News to the Uzbek people. Please pray for the ministry in Uzbekistan to continue to grow and reach many with the Good News.

Monday – 14

Please pray for religious freedom to continue in Russia, where people are living under the dark cloud of lies, misinformation, and propaganda. Russia continues engaging with the war in Ukraine and repressing people internally. Hundreds of journalists are either imprisoned or cast out of the country, freedom activists are repressed or imprisoned, and TV and online propaganda is relentless—much worse than in Soviet times. Please pray for the light of the Gospel to shine through in these dark times.

Tuesday – 15

Please pray for the teenagers of Moldova, many of them write to us feeling purposeless, to tell us about serious problems at home, even to tell us about suicidal feelings. There is an epidemic of pain and hopelessness among the young people of Moldova.

Wednesday – 16

Elvira, one of FEBC-Kazakhstan's broadcasters, was approached by her boss at work after he saw one of her videos about Jesus. "You are a Christian?" he asked. He had a lot of questions for her. She shared her story with him, and her boss responded, "I don't accept this, Jesus cannot be God. There is no truth in your faith." But a short while later, he came back and asked her, "Does God answer your prayers in Christianity? No matter how many times I pray to Allah, I cannot receive an answer or peace in my soul." Please pray for Elvira's boss, who is blinded by years of Islamic traditions, to have her eyes opened by the Holy Spirit.

Thursday – 17

Please pray for FEBC-Moldova's partnerships with churches throughout the country, helping ministries develop their own evangelistic content to reach the people near them. They recently met with over 120 church teachers, sharing our experience in creating children's content. Please pray for these partnerships to bear much fruit for the Kingdom of God.

Friday – 18

Please pray for FEBC-Ukraine's prayer evangelists, as we have added two new members to the team. They have experience dealing with war trauma, and are a blessed addition to the team. Please pray for them as they begin serving the people of Ukraine in this way. Pray that they lead many to the hope found only in Christ.

Saturday – 19

Please pray for FEBC-Russia's Bible programs, which are aimed at engaging online audiences with short, thought-provoking videos sharing the Gospel and Biblical truths. These are released as 1-minute clips, optimized for social media platforms, and many are responding and being connected to our evangelists. Please pray for hearts and minds to be open to the Gospel and God's Biblical truth.

Sunday – 20

Hundreds of Ukrainian civilians are dying every month, and those are just the numbers that are able to be calculated. It is unclear how many die in occupied territories. Please pray for the families of those who have died. And for those Ukrainians living in occupied territories, where it is uncertain whether they will be liberated. Please pray for the Gospel to provide hope and comfort to those who are hurting and in fear in these days through FEBC's broadcasts.

Monday – 21

Please pray for teenage listeners like Daniela, from Moldova, who writes: "I don't understand what is happening, but since I started watching your programs, I've been changing!" Daniela was very depressed, barely eating, and thought regularly about suicide. "I feel different now, I even stopped listening to my favorite band." This band regularly talks about suicide. "I'm starting to feel alive again. I've even been smiling!" Please pray for Daniela as her life is beginning to change by listening to the Gospel. Please pray for her to give her life to Jesus.

Tuesday – 22

Kulyash, a young woman from Kazakhstan, came to one of FEBC-Kazakhstan's youth meetings on Valentine's Day. "I wasn't a Christian yet, I was still searching. My friends had already dragged me to a couple church services, but it felt weird, full of unfamiliar traditions. That night, you said something that shocked me—God is love. I couldn't stop thinking about it. My Christian friends and I talked about God for hours. I had always felt that God was more than just religion. That He was everywhere, and we could always turn to Him. That night, I started to understand which God was the true God. Today, I'm a Christian and my friends don't have to drag me to church anymore."

Wednesday – 23

Please pray for Artem, a 13-year-old boy from Moldova, who has been coming to FEBC-Moldova's teenage meetups. After coming to a church service with the team, Artem decided that he wanted to build a relationship with God! We have now agreed to read the Bible together and he will be coming to our church services. He lives in a very difficult home situation, and is also having trouble at school. He has many questions about God and wants God to change his character. Please pray for Artem as he begins his journey towards Christ.

Thursday – 24

Please pray for FEBC's women's programs that are reaching many women with the Gospel in Uzbekistan. With widespread family violence and lack of opportunities for women, our programs are received favorably by the thousands, from Tashkent to Bukhara. The need for the hope of Christ is great. Please pray for this

Friday – 25

Maria called FEBC-Ukraine after losing her husband, who was killed in the war. “I’ve never felt pain like this. The grief is so heavy, it’s taken over my life.” Our evangelists shared with Maria about having a relationship with God through Jesus. About prayer, and God’s comfort. As they prayed together, Maria put her faith in Jesus. “Thank you for dying for me...thank you for buying me new life. Please help me,” Maria said, weeping. FEBC’s evangelists helped her find a local church where she can continue to grow in her faith. “From the bottom of my heart, thank you. I feel hopeful and light—I didn’t think it was possible to feel this way.”

Saturday – 26

Please pray for Aman, from Kazakhstan, who was searching for the truth about God. He had been watching FEBC-Kazakhstan’s videos and reached out to us for help. We were able to introduce him to local Christians who gave him a Bible and had a heart-to-heart conversation with him. Please pray for this relationship to continue and for Aman to put his faith in the Lord.

Sunday – 27

Our team recently recorded a podcast on the street, inviting people to: “Ask me about God.” A 21-year-old soldier stopped and his question was heartbreaking: “Where was God when I was being electrocuted in captivity?” He had been held captive for two years by the Russians, facing torture and abuse, and was released only a month earlier. Ihor, FEBC-Ukraine’s broadcaster, told him that God cared about his pain and had a plan for his future. The young man repented and accepted Jesus. Please pray for all those returning from captivity — that God would heal their hearts and that they would receive Him as their Savior. Also, pray for the relatives of our team members — some of their loved ones have been held in captivity for over two years or are still missing.

Monday – 28

Please pray for FEBC-Kyrgyzstan as we search for a new location for our studio. We pray for God's direction and protection as we search and begin to move forward.

Tuesday – 29

Please pray for listeners in Moldova like Andrey, who have severe addictions to alcohol and drugs. Andrey was desperate for help and wrote to FEBC-Moldova. "I need to be free of this. Please, can Jesus help me?" FEBC's evangelists shared the Gospel with Andrey, and helped him find resources and help for his addictions. They also connected him to a local church. Please pray for Andrey to put his faith in Christ.

Wednesday – 30

Please pray for listeners like Sayat, a college student who responded to our program in Kazakhstan. He had a lot of questions, asking about the difference between Islam and Christianity. "Why did only Jesus become God—why not someone else?" Sayat is in communication with one of FEBC's volunteers, learning more about Christianity. Please pray for Sayat and the many other young people in Kazakhstan who were raised as Muslims, but are unsure of what they actually believe.

Thursday – 31

Please pray for listeners like Artem, who are struggling with gambling addictions, often made worse by the stress of the war. Artem was looking for a way out of his addiction and contacted FEBC's evangelists. "You helped me understand what the roots of my addictions were. But most importantly, you told me how to have a personal connection with God—you helped me give my life to Jesus. Now I can talk with God myself."
