

Thursday, 1 January

Please pray for the upcoming retreat of the Kazakhstan team. Many new people have joined the team. This will be a valuable time of learning and sharing experience. May this time be a season of restoration and unity.

Friday, 2 January

Please pray for Anna and Olga, hosts from Russia. They will be organizing meetings for unbelieving children across Russia, presenting performances and sharing about God's love.

Please pray for open hearts among the children and for the entire organization.

Saturday, 3 January

Please pray for the teenage ministry in Moldova. We ask for prayer for Artem, who actively attends our meetings. He has recently begun going to church regularly, reading the Bible, and asking many questions about how to accept Christ and how to struggle against his sins. Please pray for this ministry as a whole. Due to social challenges in the country, the number of troubled teenagers is increasing. May God help and transform the hearts of young people.

Sunday, 4 January

Please pray for the women's project Embrace in Ukraine. Recently, we held a meeting in Mykolaiv that was attended by 80 unbelieving women. We spoke about forgiveness, relationships, and offered encouragement through the promises of the Bible during a very difficult time for them. This meeting once again showed how open the women in Mykolaiv are and how deeply they long for hope. Many of them live under immense pressure and pain, and this gathering became a place where they could pause, share their struggles, and receive comfort. Please pray for these women. One woman came afterward and said that during the message, God answered questions that had troubled her for many years. May God touch the hearts of these women and grant them comfort.

Monday, 5 January

Please pray for our TikTok streams in Kazakhstan, our brothers engage in discussions with Muslims about the uniqueness and greatness of Jesus Christ. Recently, they had an interesting conversation with a young Muslim man. The discussion began with the question of what he knows about the prophet Abraham. The young man, Muslim, shared several well-known but mostly distorted facts. Our team then shared with him about the meaning of the shedding of blood and the sacrifice of Jesus—that sin is not forgiven without the shedding of blood. Muslim, who considers himself a Muslim, was very interested in what he heard and promised that over the next two months he would read the Bible and study this issue on his own. We ask you to pray for Muslim and for the entire streaming team. May the Lord give them strength to proclaim the truth in the name of Jesus Christ.

Tuesday, 6 January

Please pray for Nataliia and Roman Ivashchenko from Ukraine. Nataliia is a follow-up worker on the Helpline. More than a year ago, her husband suffered a very severe injury and survived only by a miracle. Please pray for his rehabilitation, as well as for everything the family needs.

Wednesday, 7 January

Pray for FEBC–Eurasia’s Christmas media campaign, which aims to reach 120 million men, women, and children. Ask God to open hearts to Jesus and bring many to saving faith in Him.

Thursday, 8 January

Please pray for Ukraine for the ability to get through this winter — that the team would be able to work in warmth, with electricity, and with the opportunity to continue serving.

Friday, 9 January

Please pray for our helpline in Kazakhstan, where we provide pastoral care for people in various difficult situations. This ministry has helped many people. The team is now seeking to change its strategy of work. Please pray that God would open new paths and directions.

Saturday, 10 January

Please pray for Misha Manastyrskiy, who for a long time was a morning host on our radio in Ukraine. His own brother was killed by the russians. Pray for God’s comfort for the entire family.

Sunday, 11 January

Please pray for our listener Khalim from Uzbekistan. After watching and listening to our videos, he wrote to us: “Today, for the first time, I turned to Jesus!” He has begun reading the Bible and discovering the Word of God. Please pray that God would continue to work in his heart and lead him to true repentance.

Monday, 12 January

Please pray for the children's ministry in Moldova. During the Christmas season, many young listeners joined us. One of them is Masha, who consistently watched our daily Advent videos. Vanya also regularly watches our content; he has started reading the Bible with us and asking questions about God.

These videos have also helped attract an adult audience. People began asking questions about God—why He is true—and members of the Muslim audience also asked questions about Jesus. Much was sown during this period. Please pray for these listeners, that they would open their hearts to God.

Tuesday, 13 January

Please pray for the blogging team in Moldova. This year, we would like to involve new people in the team and expand this ministry. The blogging ministry is one of the most effective forms of outreach in our time. Many people watch short videos about God and send numerous questions to our bloggers. When a question is especially complex, we refer the person to pastoral counselors, and this happens quite often.

Recently, a young woman named Elena wrote a question to one of our bloggers. He directed her to the helpline, and she accepted Christ, and we were able to connect her with a church. God is working in wonderful ways through this ministry. Please pray for each blogger and for the expansion of the team.

Wednesday, 14 January

Please pray for the youth ministry in Kazakhstan. Meetings are currently being held actively, and many different young people are attending. We especially ask for prayer for an active new participant, Vitya, who came to Almaty to study and has started attending the meetings. He is an agnostic, but he regularly attends, listens to the Gospel, and engages openly. Please pray for Vitya and for other young people like him, that God's Word would touch their hearts.

Thursday, 15 January

Please pray for the youth project in Moldova. We are currently considering a new format for Bible-based programs for young people. May God grant guidance and wisdom.

Friday, 16 January

Pray for FEBC supporters to continue strengthening this ministry during this season of giving. Ask God to raise up new partners and prayer warriors who will stand with us in reaching the nations.

Saturday, 17 January

Pray for FEBC listeners among Russia's minority peoples—Buryat, Komi, Tatar, and others—living in deep spiritual darkness. Ask God to bring His light and life into their communities, and that many will follow Christ.

Sunday, 18 January

Please pray for Karolina from Moldova. Karolina is a youth blogger and is currently going through a difficult time. She is the only believer in her family. Due to financial problems, her mother went abroad to work and left Karolina alone with her younger brothers and sisters. Please pray that God would strengthen her and help her continue to serve.

Monday, 19 January

Please pray for the helpline in Ukraine, whose follow-up workers receive many messages and calls every day from people who have been carrying the burdens of war daily for many years.

Tuesday, 20 January

Please pray for our listener Khalbibi from Kazakhstan. She reached out to us with a difficulty that many women in Muslim countries face. Khalbibi is married to a man, and they have three children together. She discovered that he was unfaithful, and their relationship is now in a very difficult situation. Their marriage is not officially registered with the state; they were married according to Islamic law. Unfortunately, in Kazakhstan there has recently been a growing trend like this among the Muslim population. Under such laws, a man can easily divorce by saying just one word, while the woman is left unprotected and without any rights. She is now alone and in a very difficult situation. Please pray for this situation and for all women who are going through similar hardships.

Wednesday, 21 January

Please continue to pray for a just peace in the Russian-Ukrainian war. Pray that all people living in the temporarily occupied territories will receive freedom, and that all Ukrainians will be able to return to their homes.

Thursday, 22 January

Please pray for the team in Russia. The political situation is very difficult, and it is hard to openly preach the Gospel. May God give the team strength and also open the hearts of the country's authorities.

Friday, 23 January

Pray for the health, spiritual growth, unity, and continued dedication of all radio ministry workers in Kyrgyzstan as they serve through media.

Saturday, 24 January

Please pray for listeners and viewers of OK Radio in Kyrgyzstan.

Pray that through our lives, our testimony, and the living Word of God, people will encounter Jesus Christ, open their hearts to the truth, and experience salvation.

Sunday, 25 January

Pray that our children's programs touch thousands of young hearts—from suffering Ukraine to restrictive Turkmenistan and struggling Belarus. Fewer than 1% of children in this region receive any Christian teaching—pray that these messages of hope will reach them.

Monday, 26 January

Please pray for the team serving in Kyrgyzstan. Due to the difficult political and religious situation, there is no opportunity to freely proclaim the Gospel. Yet there are many listeners who are hungry to hear the Word of God. May God grant new ideas in this year, strength to keep moving forward, and wisdom to expand and sustain the ministry.

Tuesday, 27 January

Please pray for a listener named Farrukh from Uzbekistan. As a child, he read his grandmother's Bible, and now he has consciously accepted Jesus. His parents are radical Muslims and forbid him from attending church. Please pray that God would work in his father's heart and grant Farrukh strength and steadfast faith.

Wednesday, 28 January

Please pray for a listener named Dilnura from Uzbekistan. "I need the mercy of Jesus," she says. Dilnura is suffering from health complications due to disruptions in her body. She has heard the Gospel. May the Lord fill her with faith and grant healing to her soul and body.

Thursday, 29 January

Also pray for our host Serhii Balaian and his wife Nataliia. Nataliia's father was killed by a Russian drone in the city of Kherson. The Russians simply launched a drone at a civilian car that her father was driving. Pray for comfort for the whole family, and also for spiritual strength for Serhii, so that he can continue serving people through the radio.

Friday, 30 January

Please pray for the ministry in Uzbekistan. May God grant spiritual awakening, raise up new people to join the team, and help this ministry to grow and develop.

Saturday, 31 January

Please pray for the seminar in April focused on YOUTH EVANGELISM. We are planning to gather the most effective youth media evangelists from across Eurasia so they can pray for one another, learn together, share best practices, identify emerging trends, and explore how they can become even more effective in the next season of ministry.
