

Sunday, 1 February

Please pray for prayers for Umida from Uzbekistan. She is facing health issues. May God strengthen her, grant her a quick recovery, and continue to bless her in her ministry.

Monday, 2 February

Please pray for our listener Erasyl from Kazakhstan. After watching a video about faith in Jesus, he began actively showing interest and asked many questions about faith. He was also especially interested in hearing testimonies of how Kazakhs come to believe in Jesus. Please pray for Erasyl—he is open and eager to learn about God. May God touch his heart, as well as the hearts of other listeners.

Tuesday, 3 February

Please pray listeners like Olena from Ukraine, who wrote to our host after watching her program. Our host recorded some voice messages for Olena, sharing more about Christ and how to turn to Him for forgiveness and new life. Olena put her faith in Christ and started attending church. “I was even able to stop taking my antidepressants,” she said. “I feel so much more alive and joyful—in my relationship with God and while I’m serving in church!”

Wednesday, 4 February

Please pray for our hosts in Ukraine to have the strength and opportunity to interact with listeners beyond their broadcasts. Personal communication with listeners can be very powerful and life-changing for listeners. Please also pray for our volunteers who communicate with listeners in the comments during broadcasts. These personal conversations are where many life changes are made.

Thursday, 5 February

Please pray for Peter and Daniel, the hosts of a Bible program for young people in Moldova. We are currently launching a month-long challenge for young people based on biblical truths and are planning programs featuring well-known figures from Moldova. Please pray that the hearts of young people would be open to hearing the Word of God.

Friday, 6 February

On January 27, a church in Odesa, Ukraine, was completely destroyed by a drone. Please pray for the protection of the studio, as well as for churches across Ukraine where we direct our listeners.

Saturday, 7 February

Please pray for Stella, a young broadcaster from Russia, who is expecting to give birth soon. May God arrange everything and continue to bless Stella in her media ministry.

Sunday, 8 February

Please pray for our team from Kazakhstan. Next month, they will be going on a missionary trip to the country's capital, Astana. They will be busy, as they are planning to visit listeners not only in the capital but also in a small town located about 20 km away. Please pray for this trip—that the Lord would guide these conversations and would lead our broadcasters to the right people.

Monday, 9 February

We ask for prayers for the weather conditions in Moldova. Many listeners are struggling—because of sudden temperature changes, many villages are without electricity and therefore without heating. And due to severe frost and icy roads, many people have been injured, and emergency departments are overwhelmed. Please pray for the Lord's mercy and provision.

Tuesday, 10 February

Please pray for Natalia, a prayer evangelist from Ukraine, who is expecting a baby. Pray that her pregnancy and delivery would go as smoothly as possible, for her health and the health of the child, and also for her husband—a war veteran who miraculously survived the front lines and only barely avoided losing his leg.

Wednesday, 11 February

Please pray for our listeners like Oksana, in Ukraine, who are struggling in these difficult times. “Your words about God's love are life-giving,” she wrote. Oksana did not have heating in her home and was unable to buy warm clothing. Our team was able to send her what she needed to stay warm. Please pray for our listeners who are going through incredible difficulties in Ukraine to remain open to the Good News.

Thursday, 12 February

Please pray for the health of our broadcaster in Kazakhstan, Talgat. He is currently undergoing medical examinations and treatment due to some health issues. Please pray for our brother Talgat, for his health, and that he would also be able to join the Kazakhstan team on their missionary trip.

Friday, 13 February

Please pray for the health of the members of our team from Ukraine. They face constant anxiety for their loved ones on the front lines, sleepless nights because of shelling, cold nights without heating, and the lack of ability to cook food because stoves are electric, many have experienced a serious decline in their health. Please pray for health and strength as they continue spreading the Gospel to the people of Ukraine.

Saturday, 14 February

The level of government control over the Internet in Russia is increasing, with the government looking for more ways to block undesirable websites (including YouTube and Instagram). Please pray for continued freedom to preach the Gospel publicly in Russia and for God's provision and wisdom in this quickly changing landscape.

Sunday, 15 February

Please pray for prayers for our listener Kausar, from Kazakhstan. Kausar is from a deeply Islamic family, but she was filled with a deep fear and anxiety. "Nobody is able to help me," she said. "I am not a Christian, but maybe you could help?" Please pray for the Lord to open Kausar's heart as our broadcasters continue ministering to her.

Monday, 16 February

Please prayer for our Elvira from the FEBC-Russia. She is scheduled to undergo surgery to remove growths from her thyroid gland. May God help her and grant her a quick recovery.

Tuesday, 17 February

Please pray for the listeners of our children's programs in Moldova. About 70% of our listeners are from Muslim countries, and many parents write to us in the comments, asking questions about faith and about God. May the Word of God work in their hearts, and may God also give us new ideas for a variety of children's programs.

Wednesday, 18 February

Please pray for our listeners like Igor, from Ukraine, who wrote to us saying, “I listened to one of your sermons on the radio. I am not a believer, and it really made me think.” He asked us to send him the recording of that sermon. Please pray for every listener who hears our programs—that their hearts would be open to taking the next step in knowing God.

Thursday, 19 February

Please pray for our listener Aika from Russia, who was experiencing a deep inner emptiness. “I don’t remember the last time I felt joy,” she said. “I feel like I’m alone in the world, like no one cares or understands.” FEBC-Russia’s prayer evangelists shared the Gospel with Aika and she put her faith in Christ. “I want to be a child of God, I want to call Him Father,” she said. Please pray for Aika as she grows in her new faith.

Friday, 20 February

Please pray for offline meetings being held with young adult listeners in Russia. Our broadcasters meet with these young people and are able to share Christ with them in person as they build relationships with them. We are seeing young people coming to church for the first time as well as giving their lives to Christ. Please pray for these meetings to continue to grow and transform many lives.

Saturday, 21 February

Pray for our hidden teams in Tajikistan and Turkmenistan. Thousands are hearing the Gospel through platforms we cannot name. Our workers risk their freedom every day—pray for their protection, courage, and fruitfulness, especially during this season when doors open a little wider.

Sunday, 22 February

Please pray for the youth ministry in Moldova. Many young people are learning about God and His love through FEBC-Moldova’s youth programs and our regular offline meetings with teenage and young listeners. Many have accepted Christ into their hearts. We ask especially for prayers for Alina and Artem. Artem recently repented and now regularly attends church. Alina has been baptized and has become a member of a local church. Both of them are facing difficult situations in their families. May God’s hand be upon these young people, and may the Word of God touch many more young people like them.

Monday, 23 February

Please pray for our new, young online evangelists in Russia, who are passionate to reach people for Christ. We are training up many young people in evangelism, sharing broadcasting techniques, and providing spiritual guidance. Please pray for this new generation of evangelistic broadcasters.

Tuesday, 24 February

Please pray for Kyrgyz listeners who are encountering Jesus Christ through FEBC-Kyrgyzstan's ministry. Through sharing Scripture, Biblical principles for family life, and the testimonies of those who have become Christians, many are being challenged in their beliefs and are coming to know Jesus.

Wednesday, 25 February

Please pray for Almat and his ministry. He is currently in the city of Atyrau, Kazakhstan, on a missionary outreach. He goes live on TikTok, sharing the gospel with people, talking about Jesus and the Bible. While in Atyrau, he is also meeting in person with various listeners who joined his live streams, sharing the Bible with them and testifying about how God has changed his life. Please pray for Almat and for all the people he has met during this time. May the Lord reveal the truth to their hearts through faith in Jesus Christ.

Thursday, 26 February

Please pray for our listener Daria from Moldova. After watching our videos, she reached out to us with a serious need. She has major health problems. She does not yet know God, but she listened to and received the Word. She agreed to pray and is asking that we continue praying for her condition. May God show His mercy and bring healing to Daria's body and soul, so that she may receive Jesus into her heart and life.

Friday, 27 February

Please pray for the ministry in Uzbekistan, a new field facing many challenges from the government and their religious environment. They are seeing great results despite these challenges, with many writing to them asking questions and asking for Bibles. They also receive many angry and threatening messages. May God grant spiritual awakening to Uzbekistan, raise up new people to join the team, and help this ministry continue to grow and develop. And may He give courage and strength to our broadcasters as they bravely minister in these difficult circumstances.

Saturday, 28 February

Please pray for the upcoming retreat of FEBC-Kazakhstan's youth follow-up team. This team reaches out to young Kazakh people in our audience, builds relationships with them, and shares the Gospel with them one-on-one. Many young Muslims would never consider visiting a Christian church, but when invited in this way, are willing to come. This is also a safe way for them to ask questions without receiving blow-back from their communities. Please pray for the team to learn, to grow, and to be encouraged as they come together during this time.
